

Bombi's Cozy Christmas Eve

a little coloring book for slow, cozy nights

This cozy book belongs to

Pour something warm, light a candle, and take your time. There is no wrong way to color.

Christmas Eve began slowly, with snow at the window and something warm in her favorite mug.

By noon the kitchen smelled of cinnamon and ginger. Bombi baked a little extra, just to share.

She wrapped each gift with care, tying every bow like a tiny hug.

Then came the cards: a few sweet words for each of the people she loves.

As the sun went down, Bombi hung one more heart on the tree, just because.

She bundled up and carried a jar of cookies to her dear friend down the lane.

Back home, by candlelight, she whispered thank you for the gift of Christmas.

With the fire crackling, she curled up with a good book and one more cookie.

As the snow fell softly, Bombi drifted off to sleep. Merry Christmas, sweet friend.

Merry Christmas
